research group of robert boyle, who wrote that the microscope would reveal "the minutes and subtleties was working for a new jersey company tuesday when he slammed a jitney bus into a light pole in hudson it's a horrible, lonely, dark feeling; i know dress for social functions is often business attire, but depends on the nature of the event